

WESTOVER COMPOSITE SQUADRON FLIES HIGH ON FIELD TRIP TO AIR MUSEUM – FEBRUARY 2010

Westover Composite Squadron was flying high on field trip to New England Air Museum (Bradley Field, Windsor Locks, CT) on February 28th, 2010. The Cadets were guided by one of our squadron's senior pilots -- Major Richard Werman.

Major Werman held the groups interest with his vast knowledge of aircraft. The cadets asked various questions especially on what it was like to be a pilot. They all had a chance to sit inside a cockpit of a Cobra helicopter. They were amazed at the tight quarters of the cockpit, with some of them bumped their heads on the canopy of the helicopter. The group also toured though the extensive display housed in three separate hangars which had many aircraft including the B29 Superfortress Bomber, VS44 Flying Boat, P17 Stearman, as well as computers simulations, and various other exhibits dealing with civilian & military aircraft.

Cadets attending Virginia Brouillette, Ben Fay, Marie Meek, Andrew Needham, Ronald Saltarelli and Ashley St. Pierre. Senior members attending included: Maj Richard Werman, 2Lt Kevin Belder, and Senior Member Elaine Brouillette.

All agreed that the field trip was extremely interesting and educational.
